

BRYAN COUNTY ENCOURAGES RESIDENTS TO ATTEND COMPREHENSIVE PLAN INPUT SESSIONS

RICHMOND HILL, GA – Nov. 3, 2017 – Bryan County will hold two public input sessions where community members can offer insights and suggestions on the county's proposed comprehensive plan.

The first session will be held at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15 at the Bryan County Administrative Building in the Commissioner's Meeting Chambers. The building is located at 66 Captain Matthew Freeman Drive in Richmond Hill. The second session is scheduled for 6 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 16 in Pembroke in the Commissioners Meeting Room, located at 26 N. Courthouse St.

The county's comprehensive plan consists of maps, text, data and support documents that form the foundation of Bryan County's planning program. The plan provides guidance for the county's physical growth through its various elements and related goals, objectives, and policies. The Bryan County commission encourages all community members to come share their thoughts and ideas, which they'll take into consideration when sculpting the plan.

"We want to provide our citizens with a broad vision of Bryan County's future. Based on this vision, the plan establishes a policy framework for land use changes, public investments, infrastructure improvements, and intergovernmental cooperation. We'd like to develop it with participation from county residents, so this is an excellent opportunity for the public to have a say in the decisions that will affect their community and lives for years to come," County Commission Chairman Carter Infinger said.
